Next Meeting – Tuesday November 8th 7:00 p.m. St. Paul's Church

President's Message:

We are just days away from rolling out the 15th edition of our Annual "Trip For Two To Ireland" Raffle. Raffle Chair Jim Woods is oiling up the spindle and dusting off the signs to kick off the selling at the Celtic Fest the weekend of October 22nd & 23rd. We'll need help manning our booths at the Raceway to get this party started. Distribution of tickets to Dooley members will be begin at the November meeting and then by mail. And as some of our brothers can attest to, "YOU MAY ALREADY BE A WINNER!"

The past couple of weekends we presented St. Mary's and St. Benedict's parishes with a contribution from our proceeds from last year's record breaking raffle. We have St. Bridget's to follow this weekend and St. Michael's and St. Patrick's on tap. At our October business meeting, we plan to present Fr. Jim Griffin of the Dooley "home parish" St. Paul's with a contribution. These presentation dates are great opportunities not only to thank our parishes for their support, but also to show a bit of the green to our fellow parishioners. Along with the recruiting/raffle sales weekends, these are great chances to find others like us who would like to further explore and celebrate their Irish heritage. There's no better way that starts the conversation about AOH and the Dooley Division than with a friend or acquaintance who approaches you to say, "hey, what's with the green jacket?"

If you are reading this newsletter on the Dooley Division's website www.aohrichmond.org, please take some time to poke around. Thanks to Dooley (and State AOH) Webmaster Pat Shea, we are updating this regularly and have given it a 21st century shine. Again, a great opportunity to point any prospective member to check out a bit more of who we are and what we do.

Thanks again to Mike Muldowney (and all his crew) for another wonderful picnic. The change in venue didn't throw him off at all. And thanks to our brothers with Knights Council #395 for providing that venue.

Looking forward to seeing you all at the Celtic Festival!

In Ar Mana,

Jim McDonnell

Presidential Candidates Celtic Roots

Donald Trump probably learned Gaelic from his mother
by Patrick Roberts @IrishCentral

Donald Trump's mother,
Mary Anne MacLeod

Crazy as it may seem, Donald Trump could well be the first ever presidential candidate to be able to speak some words of Gaelic.

That is because his mother Mary Anne MacLeod, pictured, was from the Hebrides, off the Scottish Highlands coast, where Gaelic was spoken by both of her parents, who passed it on to her.

Mary Anne was born in the Hebrides in 1912 and moved to America where she met and married Fred Trump, Donald's father. She brought Donald back to Scotland when he was very young. He has since visited with his sister.

As a Scottish heritage site put it:

"Mary Anne was born in the village of Tong, in the parish of Stornoway on 10th May 1912, to a fisherman named Malcolm MacLeod and his wife, Mary Smith.

"This couple had been married in 1891 and both were Gaelic speakers, and, although not so widespread as it once was, the language is still alive and well in that region.

"It is thus likely that Mary Anne herself would have spoken it and the young Donald may well have been soothed by Gaelic lullabies as a child."

Charming notion that the man who is best known for saying 'you're fired' might also be capable of remembering Gaelic words taught to him as a child.

Well he should certainly learn 'Pog mo Thoin' which means of course 'kiss my a..'

He has aimed that barb at plenty of opponents, I'm sure.

Hillary Clinton's Greatgrandmother's Welch Roots

US genealogy expert Megan Smolenyak has traced Mrs Clinton's roots to a mining family from Ystradyfodwg, a small community in south Wales. It is named after Dyfodwg, or Tyfodwg, a sixth century Welsh saint who some believe may have been a Breton Monk. The district, known for its reliance on coal mining and poverty, has since been abolished and is now part of Rhondda.

Mrs Clinton's great-grandmother Mary Griffiths was born in Merthyr Tydfil in the Welsh Valleys, and from an early age supported her widowed mother. Official records show she was working as a servant by the age of 12 but in reality she may have been working even earlier. 'Fatherless by the age of one, Mary Griffiths had already been dealt a tough hand.' She went on to marry William Jones, a coal miner from Neath, in 1871 and the couple settled in Ystradyfodwg. In a bid for a better life the family made the lengthy journey via Ellis Island to Scranton in Pennsylvania, another mining district where they would continue their trade in the early 1880s. Shortly after they arrived Hannah Jones was born, sometime between 1882 and 1883.

It was in America that Hannah Jones - who was to become Mrs Clinton's grandmother - met Hugh Rodham, part of the Rodham family who had travelled to America two years earlier from Northumberland. But the circumstances of their marriage reveal the poverty the Jones family endured and the wide social gulf between the Rodhams and Joneses at that time. The pair eloped to Binghampton in New York to get married.

Ms Smolenyak revealed that the Jones family were all miners while the Rodhams - who were to become Hannah Jones' in-laws - had left the trade after arriving in the US, and one even became a physician.

Mrs Clinton's grandparents Hannah Jones (left) and Hugh Rodham eloped to wed in Binghampton, New York, and are pictured with their granddaughter, former First Lady Hillary Clinton

'And if [Hillary] Rodham Clinton recalls her grandmother Hannah as a strong-willed woman who "ruled everyone within her reach," it may have been a reflection of her determination to escape the circumstances that left her the sole survivor of her birth family of 16 by her early forties.' Hannah Jones Rodham, frequently described by Mrs Clinton as a 'strong willed woman' gave birth to Mrs Clinton's father Hugh E Rodham in 1911 and died in 1952 when Mrs Clinton was just five.
