IRISH AMERICAN HERITAGE MONTH

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=OxQCaqJ20as>

This year we're celebrating the eight Irish signers of the Declaration of Independence. We can use some help at Howell Branch (10, 11,12) and Salem Church Branch (17, 18, 19). The usual suspects Peter Carroll, Bill Halpin, John Hogan and Dan Mulhern volunteered at the main library (CRRL) on 3,4,5 March

President's Corner

My Brothers,

March – first day of spring (the 19th), middle of Lent and the feast day of our patron saint. Indeed, Irish Heritage Month is a very important and busy time for the Irish and, especially, the Hibernians! This month there are parades, festivities, masses and other events. I welcome and strongly encourage each of you to participate in one or more of these activities:

On 7 March is the annual Alexandria Parade and on 9 March is the annual Gaelic Mass at St Thomas More Cathedral, Arlington at 7:30PM.

Join your brothers to display our Hibernian pride as we celebrate Saint Patrick:

14 March Celebration at the Red Dragon Brewery

17 March Division Mass at St Patrick Church at 6:30PM

17 March Festival at the Maltese Brewing Company

21 March Downtown Block Party at Spencer Devon Brewing

You've probably already blown your Lenten sacrifice or resolution, so make up for it by doing something positive – commit to at least one of these activities. This is the time for you to embrace our motto of Friendship, Unity and Christian Charity!

“The Celt would forfeit his title to the respect of the civilized world, did he not fight with all his heart and all his soul and all his cunning against the empire which has despoiled him and murdered his kin, now with arms, now with artificial famine. There can be no peace between the two people until either Ireland is a desert or is free. It is war to the knife, and the knife to the hilt. There can be neither truce nor compromise

Irish prehistory

Fourknocks older than Stonehenge © Getty Images

Older than Stonehenge and the Pyramids, Fourknocks in Co. Meath is home to some of the most important prehistoric monuments in the world. In addition to Newgrange, Fourknocks is worth visiting. Built around 3000 BC, it has a larger chamber than Newgrange, a shorter passage, features engraved stones, and what is thought to be one of the first depictions of the human face found in prehistoric Irish art. To this see this Neolithic burial mound visitors must obtain a key from the White family, who live a mile away -- before 6pm.

St. Patrick Day On Montserrat

By Bridget English, Contributor, Irish America April / May 2006 (critically edited for Dispatches)

An island in the Caribbean is probably the last thing people think of at mention of the words “Ireland” or “St. Patrick Day.” The small island of Montserrat is one of two place in the world that recognizes St. Patrick Day as a national holiday. The lush tropical island celebrates the day with a festival from March 11-18 with food, costumes, arts and crafts, an outdoor theater production and even a calypso competition.

Montserrat, known as the “Emerald Isle of the Caribbean” has a significant population claiming Irish heritage. The reason for the large concentration of Irish immigrants can be traced to the 17th century when the island was a haven for Irish Catholics who had served out their time as indentured servants in the British West Indies and were fleeing anti-Catholic sentiment on St. Kitts and Nevis Islands. Most inhabitants of Montserrat are descendants of marriages between these Irish and African slaves.

(Editor’s Note: Terms like “indentured servants” is a lie used to make the English feel better. The truth is by the mid-1600s, the Irish were the main slaves sold to Antigua, Montserrat, and Brazil. At that time, 70% of the total population of Montserrat were Irish slaves.)

The holiday commemorates a slave uprising that took place on St. Patrick Day in 1768. The day was chosen because landowners would be distracted by the celebrations. Though the uprising was unsuccessful – slavery wasn't abolished on the island until 1834 – it struck a blow for freedom and is celebrated with great pride.

The flag of Montserrat features a woman in a green dress carrying a harp and cross, symbols of the Irish influence on the island.

St Patrick Day became a national holiday in 1985. The town of Little Bay is building a slave village as part of their festivities. The village will feature slave huts and a slave feast of goat water, stewed yard fowl and brush tea. The inhabitants also follow more mainstream ways of celebrating, such as church services and local bars decorated in green and shamrocks serving creamy pints of Guinness.

Aside from their extravagant St. Patrick Day celebration, other touches of Irish can be seen in Montserrat inhabitants. Local speech is softly laced with Irish brogue, and many families boast Irish surnames. Irish folklore is prevalent, and the flag and official seal feature a harp and female figure derived from Irish heraldry. The island's passport stamp is a shamrock, and Irish place names such as Galway Bay abound. Even the national dish, Goat Water, a stew made of mutton spiced with cloves and rum, has Irish origin. ♦ Informal events (i.e. Division outings (ball games, picnics, meetings, etc.) the division logo polo or sweatshirts (optional ball cap) are appropriate.
